The tax cuts enacted in Kansas disproportionately affect our poorest residents. While the wealthiest Kansans take home enough money to purchase more than 14,000 loaves of bread, low-income families actually OWE more taxes, which means 125 fewer loaves of bread for them.

Source: Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy Microsimulation Tax Model, March 2014
BLS CPI - Average Price Data, February 2014
Analysis shows the impact of tax changes that went into effect in 2013
www.realprosperityks.com